
EDITORIAL

As the new Editor-in-Chief of IJVR, It is with excitement that I would like to welcome you to IJVR15-1(2015).

This special issue contains papers selected from the Laval Virtual 2014 conference. The conference has gained an international reputation for disseminating the results of leading research in virtual systems development.

The front cover figure, and the associated article, illustrate a locomotion device developed by Cyberith. The « Virtualizer » provides amazing experience to move almost freely in virtual world.

I would like to thank Prof. Simon Richir, the conference chair of Laval Virtual 2014, and the compagny Cyberith. Finally, I also would like to thank Prof. Richard Blade to give me the opportunity to integrate the IJVR team.

Dr. Cédric Buche
Editor-in-Chief
European Center for Virtual Reality, France